English:

None of us is perfect. Every uncivilised thing that we do helps to bring suffering to our nation and to the whole world. On the other hand, every civilised thought we think, every noble deed helps to bring nearer the time when the world will be really civilised. A few hundred years ago, people in different countries even in distant parts of the same country, could behave badly without doing much harm to people in other countries or other parts of their country. If there was a cruel king in a European country, it did not matter much to India or China. But it is no longer so. The new thinking has joined the whole world together. We now live in One World.
